Hold Teacher's Institute In Coleman

Last Thursday, June 2, Miss Myrtle Johnston and her Social Studies classes, grades 7, 8, and 9, were hosts to the social studies teachers of the Pincher Creek school inspectorate. Teachers from Pincher Creek, Cowley, Lundbreck, Maple Leaf, Bellevue, Hillcrest and Blairmore spent the morning observing the excellent teaching procedures and the vigorous, competent activities of the classes. The visitors were much impressed by the ability of these boys and girls to speak easily and clearly, to work together effectively for the common good, and to carry on profitable discussions about the high quality and educational value of the activities of the morning.

During the afternoon the 13 teachers carried on a round-table discussion under the chairmanship of Mr. McKay, superintendent of schools who reviewed the strong points of the lessons of the morning and opened discussion on the following topics:

Correlation of Language Teaching with Social Studies.

Can the teacher be entirely impartial on controversial questions, for example Communism?

Can written tests check the objectives for which we strive in our social studies courses?

At 4:30, tea served by members of Coleman staff contributed to the enjoyment of the visitors in a very pleasant, social half-hour.

Coleman Cubs Win 1 Lose 1 At Kimberley

On their first double header played at Kimberley, B.C. the Coleman Cubs brought in a top heavy win of 7 to 1, and in the second game lost by a close score of 10 to 9.

Both games were well attended and gave particularly strong evidence that Coleman club is off to a good start and will prove themselves hard to equal if their starting clip is kept up.

In the first game Kimberley set the scoring pace by making the first run in the second inning; both teams scoring all in innings 3 and 4. In the fifth inning Coleman jumped ahead by a two run session, repeating the sixth, 8th, and knocking in a single in the 9th.

During the game the top men at bat for the Coleman Cubs were Kitaguchi with three single hits in 4 times at bat; Kovacic 3 singles out of 4, Yogi Berni making a record of being given 3 walks out of 4 times at bat.

Lefty Kimoto made a great job of pitching in this game giving Kimberley two hits in the 9 innnings.

In the second game Coleman made the first run in the first inning, the second and third in the second, in which Kimberley tied the score by a three-run score. Creeping one ahead in the third. Coleman recovered the lead in the fourth by a two-run session, and put themselves still farther ahead by scoring in the fifth. Kimberley began to catch up in the sixth by making a run, were set back in the 7th by Coleman chalking up another. In the 8th, Coleman ran in two more, but Kimberley taking a spurt succeeded in running in four making the total 9 to 9.

The game was finished in the end of the ninth inning when Kimberley brought in their only home run, giving them the game 10 to 9.

Coal Situation In Coleman Area Reviewed

In a letter to the shareholders of McMillivray Creek Coal and Coke Co. Ltd., the situation in this area was reviewed, and future prospects pointed out:

On January 17th last a letter was directed to the shareholders drawing attention to the difficulties this company was experiencing in maintaining economic production. Those adverse conditions are further aggravated by the increase in indirect wage and other mining costs, all of which must be absorbed by the Company.

The Company's properties and operations have been examined by an eminent consulting mining engineer and after careful consideration of his reports and by the company's own engineering staff, it has been decided to modify the operating methods to the extent that coal will be only extracted where it can be done so economically, at the same time eliminating all extension of operations except as necessary for the extraction of such coal. That policy has been followed since the first of the year with encouraging results but it will be obvious that with the extraction of that coal operations will cease.

It is estimated that the life of the mine under such mining conditions would be limited to eight or ten years. Even then operations can only be profitable if idle days are kept to a minimum and the production per day and per man are maintained at a level that will enable the operations to be maintained at a profit. Extension of the life of the mine beyond this point will be determined by the results from some unproven areas, the extent of the exploration of which will, of course, depend on the profitable operation of present workings. A recurrence of the losses in 1948 would necessarily mean a reconsideration of the company's mining policy."

HIGHWAY HAZARDS

In summer most Canadian highways are jammed with holiday traffic. Many cars are driven by persons with relatively little driving experience and our traffic accident rates are often high. Remember, it takes only one accident to bring tragedy to many lives. So take it slowly, drive carefully. If you drive, don't drink. If you drink, don't drive.

Rodeo Work Still Strongly Advancing

The greatly publicized legal troubles encountered by Coleman's rodeo director, Herman Linder, while staging his Wild West show in Vancouver, did not prevent him from contacting Jim Wilkie by telephone from the coast city on Sunday to assure the chairman of Coleman's rodeo committee that preparations for the "Big Day" in Coleman are well advanced.

Cairdson's "King of the Cowboys" confirmed his earlier report to Mr. Wilkie that Monte Montana, America's ace trick-rider and his internationally famous troupe would be on hand on July 9 to put on their daringly executed show. In addition, Linder informed the general head of Coleman's rodeo committee that America's ace Rodeo clown, "Slim" Pickens, had been persuaded to stop off in Coleman, on his way to the Calgary Stampede and local fans would be treated to the inimitable antics of America's famed cowboy clown.

One feature in connection with Linder's appearance in the Vancouver courtroom has the local merchants in a head-scratching quandary. This was the veterinary's testimony that the only ill-effects observed in examining the calves, following the calf-roping contest, was their "out of wind" condition.

"That's funny," said a Coleman businessman, who competed in last year's business men's calf-roping contest, "down here, it's we who run out of wind, not the calves!"

World Crop Prospects

ALTHOUGH THE PAST FEW YEARS have seen very critical food shortages, grain crops in those countries which have been able to produce have been good. World food authorities have looked forward to the time when land made useless by the war or by lack of labor or farm equipment, would be producing again and food supplies would be increased. However, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in a recent review of the prospects of world wheat production for the present year, reported that the outlook is now less favorable than it was a year ago. While in the United States production is expected to be at least as great as it was in the past year, reports from other countries, including Canada, were less encouraging.

Higher Acreage In The States Acreage in the United States is now higher than it was last year and it is anticipated that the crop will amount to at least as much as it did last year, when it totalled 1,288,000,000 bushels.

The outlook in Canada is less hopeful because of lack of moisture during the early part of the season in the Western provinces. Expected grasshopper infestations were also given as a reason for the less encouraging report from that area. In Europe, it was learned that many countries had not needed as much acreage as had been expected, while unfavorable crop conditions were also being experienced in some places. These circumstances were all expected to result in a less bountiful harvest there than in 1948.

Need For Rain In Many Areas While in Europe and Canada the situation was not regarded as being favorable, in Australia and the Argentine, unless unforeseen conditions interfered, it was expected that the yield would be as large as it was in 1948. There is need, the report said, throughout the world for rain and favorable weather conditions if there is to be a good crop. No really accurate advance estimate of the crop can be made, for weather and other uncontrollable factors can effect the wheat until it is actually harvested. However, it is apparent that at best this year will not see any increase in wheat production and present indications seem to point to a smaller harvest than in 1948.

MONEY MATTERS

$20 Bills As Diet

CALDWELL TOWNSHIP, N.J. — Lucy, a three-month-old Skye terrier, prefers $20 bills to horse-meat.

Charles W. Foley, Lucy's owner, discovered this—to his sorrow—when he left $80 in bills on his desk and went to another room to set out a dish of horse-meat for Lucy.

By the time Foley returned to his desk, Lucy was chewing the only $20 bill among the notes he had placed there. Only a corner of the bill remained.

Bush Fire Gives Clue To "Whoopers" Nest

LAKE WASKESIU, Sask.—Recent forest fires which startled wild life along the western boundary of Prince Albert National Park have raised the possibility that three pairs of rare whooping cranes may be nesting in isolated marsh land and lake area of the park.

Jimmy Cripps, greens-keeper at Waskesiu Golf Club, as well as several fire fighters, saw five of the large white birds flying low in the park.

A report of sighting the whooper has been forwarded to the wild-life service at Ottawa.

"No Parking Law" Forced On Swans

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho.—A seaplane is being used to enforce a "no parking law" against whistling swans on lead-polluted lakes in the Coeur d'Alene Valley.

Hundreds of the swans were killed last year when they stopped on the lead-polluted lakes on their way to Canada.

This year the game department seaplane is herding the birds past the deadly lakes to unpolluted waters farther north.

Whooping Crane Found Dead In Saskatchewan

REGINA.—A whooping crane, one of 30 believed to be alive in the world today, was found shot to death in the Wilkie district, Fred Bard, director of the provincial museum, Regina, has reported.

It is believed that this specimen of the rarest of North American birds was shot late last fall while migrating to wintering grounds in Texas.

Mr. Bard said that the shooting of the bird represents a serious threat to the continued existence of this almost extinct species. It cannot, he said, withstand the drain of its numbers resulting from death by natural causes coupled with killing by man. Naturalists believe that only 33 whooping cranes are extant today.

"It is most unfortunate," said Mr. Bard, "that any individual would be selfish and thoughtless enough to jeopardize this bird's chances of survival by shamelessly shooting it."

Grave concern over the incident was also expressed by E. L. Paynter, provincial game conservation officer. "It is evident," he said, "of the lack of consideration some individuals have for our wild life resources. Naturalists cannot be everywhere at once, and we would therefore request the co-operation of public-minded citizens in preventing occurrences such as this."

Alberta To Hold Gas-Oil Session

EDMONTON.—Premier Manning said that a special session of the Alberta legislature will be held July 4 to enact further legislation governing the conservation and protection of natural gas and oil. Other main reasons for calling the session, the premier said, is to make legislative provisions for dealing with applications for drilling by companies who might wish to export natural gas.

FUNNY AND OTHERWISE

An old farmer was complaining bitterly to the minister of the terribly bad weather for the crops, when the latter reminded him that he had much to be grateful for, all the same.

"And remember," said the good man, "providence cares for all. Even the birds of the air are fed each day."

"Aye," replied the farmer, darkly, "Off my corn."

"What's the best way to teach a girl to swim?"

"First, you put your arm around her waist, take her right hand in yours."

"But this girl's my sister."

"Push her off the dock."

The sitter was meeting for the first time the little boy she was to take care of.

"Do you go to school?" she asked.

"Naw," said the little tough, "I'm sent."

Two ants were running like the wind across a cracker box.

"Say, for Pete's sake," puffed one of them at last, "what are we running so fast for?"

"Can't you read?" asked the other ant. "It says right here 'Tear along the dotted line'."

Little Rosalie, a first-grader, walking with her mother, spoke to a small boy.

"His name is Jimmy and he is in my grade," she explained.

"What's the little boy's last name?" her mother asked.

"His whole name," said Rosalie, "is Jimmy Sittdown—that's what the teacher calls him."

Bored: "You're really a very pretty girl."

Silly: "Now, now! You'd say so even if you didn't think so."

Bored—"Sure. And you'd think so even if I didn't say so."

Mary (to cook): "Look, Irma, I read once that if you peed on a red water, they won't affect your eyes. Why don't you try it?"

Irma: "I can't. I just had my hair wavy and there's a hole in my bathing cap."

THE PESSIMISM—especially apparent in larger urban areas—is unwaranted," he said.

He based his opinion on reports of his machinery company's salesmen and on information from farmers.

Experiment Conducted To Combat Erosion

NEIDPATH, Sask.—Modern agricultural methods are steadily closing in on such enemies of the Saskatchewan farmer as wind and water erosion.

At Neidpath recently, a gully a quarter of a mile long, several feet wide and from two and a half to three feet in depth was filled in the space of a few hours by two one-way discs driven by tractors, and a crop of grass sown that will anchor the soil for years to come.

This experiment is one of many of its kind that will take place in Saskatchewan this summer and was conducted jointly by A. Woodall of the Dominion experimental station, P. W. Coolican, agricultural representative, and Walter Vanherlem, soil expert from the University of Saskatchewan.

Purpose of the demonstration was to show that gullies of this type which were the result of wind or water erosion could be overcome by the proper use of the implements found on the farm.

CONCRETE LINING . . .

WHILE many people who are fortunate enough to have a good spring as a source of water on farms, make a good job of confining these springs, there are many cases where the job is more or less spoiled by improper installation of the walls or lining of the spring. We are showing here with a cross-section drawing for the lining of a spring.

Even though a spring may be strong enough to run a small stream of water over the ground surface in its natural state, it is always advisable to excavate as deeply as possible up to perhaps 5 or 6 feet in order to provide a reservoir for the water and also sufficient depth to cover the pipeline deeply enough to make it safe from frost. There should also be an overflow drain to take away water and carry it off to an outlet in a ditch or other low ground where it will not be a nuisance. This drain should usually enter the spring lifting the concrete, the outside surface of the wall should be given a batter or slope which prevents soil from lifting when it expands on freezing. It is always wise to carry the concrete lining about a foot above normal ground surface, then to bank the lining with soil to the top of the concrete, so as to turn away surface water. A double plank top or cover completes the installation.

A circular lining for such a spring would, of course, be much more difficult to excavate as deeply as possible up to perhaps 5 or 6 feet in order to provide a reservoir for the water and also sufficient depth to cover the pipeline deeply enough to make it safe from frost. There should also be an overflow drain to take away water and carry it off to an outlet in a ditch or other low ground where it will not be a nuisance. This drain should usually enter the spring box not less than 2 feet below ground surface.

Since water frequently enters such an excavation from the side rather than from the bottom, the lower part of the lining should be of dry stone so that when the water comes to the surface of the water, there should be a concrete lining put in. This will be watertight and will stop surface water from entering the spring box. To prevent frost from

KITCHEN MEDITATIONS

THE PARTING

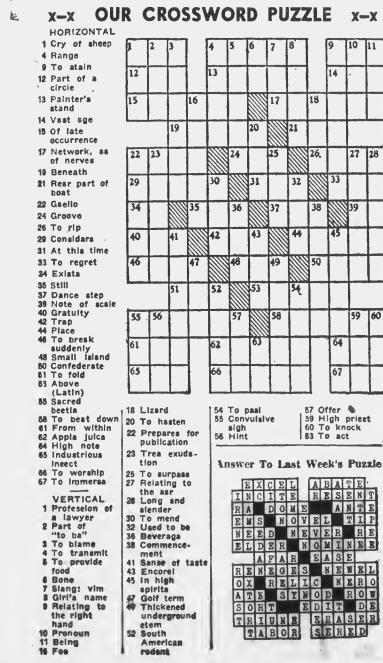

By JANE DALE

This is the day when we must part; Through far away you'll ever be in my arms; I hungered for you—held you in my arms; Sheltered you from all life's small alarms; Watched as you grew from boyhood on and on. Knowing full well that someday you'd gone. This is the day yet no bitterness is mine. You have my blessing and I will not repine. Your heart and head will guide you well; I know; An unseen Hand will point the way to go. I had those years to fit you for this day; I loved you, taught you and I learned to pray. No better now wherever you may roam. I know your deepest thoughts will be of home. This is the day when you must choose a way; That it may be the Right one, I humbly pray.

Know Your Provinces

Coal Mining In Saskatchewan Is Older Than Province Itself

THE coal mining industry in Saskatchewan is older than the Province itself. As early as 1887, eighteen years before Saskatchewan became a province, the Dominion government records indicate a production of 400 tons of coal, valued at $800.00. The earliest coal mine came from the banks of the Souris river, near Estevan and was floated down the Souris river to Winnipeg.

From this small beginning production has increased year by year until 1912 the mines of the province produced 1,664,207 tons. The last estimate of Saskatchewan's coal reserve was made a good many years ago and the area should probably be revised drastically downward. They can be removed from the wall at intervals of about 15 inches around the wall will give sufficient reinforcement for safety. One of the difficulties when putting in such a lining is the removal of the water from the excavation while work is being done. This can usually be accomplished by means of a contractor's pump of sufficient capacity to remove the water fast enough to permit the setting of the concrete.

When a spring has not sufficient elevation to send water by gravity to all parts of the farm buildings where it is needed, it is best to run the water into a cistern or reservoir, then to pump it from there into a pressure tank which will force it into the pipes when water is needed.

The inlet pipe from the spring to the reservoir should be equipped with a float valve which will shut the water off when the reservoir is full. This would conserve water and will make it unnecessary to provide an overflow drain from the reservoir.

The Souris river coal area in the province is the Souris river coal area, which is part of a larger basin sharing an area extending south into North Dakota. The greatest development has taken place in an area comprising six to eight townships extending south and east of the town of Estevan and including the villages of Balfour, Shand, Poche, Perce, Taylorton and Pinto.

This principal coal-producing district in the province is served by both railways. There are approximately 35 mines in the area, many of which are small wagon mines producing a few hundred tons of coal annually.

The coal is recovered by underground mining methods or by stripping the overburden above the coal with large excavating shovels, after which many smaller shovels dig and load the coal into trucks which carry it to modern coal-cleaning and preparing plants. The whole operation is highly mechanized and makes for low production costs.

The other coal-producing areas in the provinces which are located in Wood Mountain-Willow Bunch and Cypress Hills areas, and also there are indications of coal at several points in northern Saskatchewan.

All coal so far discovered in Saskatchewan may be classed as lignite. The characteristic brown colour and woody texture is to be observed in most of the seams. Others are darker, denser and more homogeneous.

Father's Day Founded On Respect For Paternal Head Of Family

MANY people wonder how Father's Day originated and with the coming of Father's Day on Sunday, June 19th, this is an appropriate time to tell the story.

It all sprang from the heart of a mother with deep religious feeling.

All her life, she looked back upon the kindness and courage of her Father, who raised six motherless children, of which she was one. This woman, Mrs. Bruce, wife of Spokane, Washington, was deeply impressed with the love and devotion her Father gave to his motherless brood. She often wondered if families, with both mother and father, appreciated both parents equally. Her theory was that as children we spend so much time with Mother that we fail to see the importance of the paternal head of the family.

The Ministers' Alliance and the Y.M.C.A. took up her idea and by 1910 the first Father's Day was observed in this city. On the third Sunday in June, a band of women met at church for a service and verbal tributes to Dad. Mrs. Dodge thought that there was too much respect actually shown for Fathers. In particular she pointed out the many songs in which the Father was considered the butt of jokes. Press, pulpits and women's groups took up the crusade and in very short order Father's Day was evolved.

Mrs. Dodge goes to have "Fatherhood revered as greatly as Motherhood" is today a reality not only in the city of Spokane but in the United States and Canada and many other countries of the world. This year, in Canada, the Canadian Father's Day Council have adopted as their slogan "For Better Citizenship—Make Dad Your Pal". For they feel that both the younger as well as the grown-up citizens, should pay more attention to Father. If we did, there would be less talk of such useless things as juvenile delinquency, family troubles, and divorces. They feel that with the modern freedom of this enlightened age it does not give us a license to show any disrespect for the paternal head of the family.

JOIN THE CAMPAIGN TO KEEP FORESTS GREEN

If there is anything more terrifying than a forest fire, it would be difficult to say what it is. Its heat is a terrible thing. It travels with unbelievable speed. Green trees burst into flame as if they were made of paper, starting new fires. Other fires are started miles from the scene by sparks and masses of burning bark carried by the wind. The air itself seems to be ablaze as gasses released from the over heated wood bursts into flame.

Yet the beginnings of such devastation usually are simple. A cigarette-end dropped thoughtlessly or tossed from a moving auto, a camp fire left before it is quite out, a match thrown carelessly aside while it is still blazing—these are a few of the most common forms of this destructive carelessness. The damage does not cease with only the destruction of a forest, for forests regulate the water supply on which the soil depends, provides shelter for thousands of wild things and in a hundred ways contribute to the national and provincial economy. Every year forest fires cost millions of dollars in direct loss & millions more in indirect. An alarming percentage of these fires is due to human carelessness.

The appeal, then, is to lumbermen, motorists, truck drivers, tourists, campers, hunters—to all who use or pass through the woods. It is an appeal for utmost caution. Can we make it a year without a forest fire?

(Keep Alberta's forests green!)

LOUIS ST. LAURENT, Prime Minister of Canada

Canada's great Leader

At the polls on June 27 the voter must ask himself, ahead of anything else, who should be head of the government.

In Louis St. Laurent, Canada has found a great national leader.

That he had high abilities of the mind was proved by his career in law. That he had wisdom in cabinet, unique gifts in parliamentary debate and a quick grasp of large affairs became clear as soon as he entered the Government. In international affairs, as one of the original advocates of the Atlantic Pact, he made himself a world figure who spoke out as no Canadian before him, in the councils of the nations.

He also revealed an understanding of ordinary people, because he is one of them.

This warm and essentially simple human being is the real St. Laurent, the product of the small town, of humble beginnings, hard work, a big family and the friendliness of country neighbors.

In blood, language and instinct he combines the qualities of two great races.

To the voter it is equally important that St. Laurent is the leader of a truly national party, with proved strength from coast to coast, the only party which can hope to form a stable government after the election. His character, his ability and his achievements have made him the leader of all the Canadian people.

PARDON our pointing . . . with pride.

But it's an event when the number of bank workers passes the 40,000 mark — as it did last year.

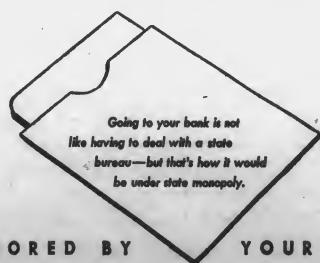

That's 65% more than before the war.

It's an event, first, because it shows the increased use of Canadian bank services . . .

More deposit accounts: now over seven million.

More funds: customers' deposits now reach nearly seven billion dollars. More services: to farmers; to personal and small-business borrowers; to war pensioners; to people receiving Family Allowances.

It's an event, too, because of the kind of men and women who have joined our ranks. Eager to get ahead, they are finding in banking an interesting job, a challenging career. They can tell you how important privacy in banking is to the Canadian way of doing things.

A Flying Trip To England

In telling of her flying trip to Great Britain Mrs. Harry Boulton outlined many highlights of the journey as we take pleasure in reporting:

"The luxurious air liner is called "The North Star" which flies across the Dominion from Pacific to Atlantic and across the Atlantic Ocean to Great Britain. We came aboard the air liner at Calgary Alberta which is situated in Foothills of the Canadian Rockies. We left this city at 10:30 a.m. and crossed three provinces coming down in Winnipeg the Capital of Manitoba at 3 p.m. We boarded the plane again as our destination was Toronto, which is called "The Queen City of Canada" and landed there at 7:00 p.m. We had by this time crossed four provinces in 8 hours, which by the railroad would have taken 4 days. We stayed in this lovely city several days and took our departure by car for St. Catharines The Fruit Belt of Ontario, called the Niagara Peninsula Peaches, Strawberries, Cherries, Plums, Apples & Grapes. We also visited the Paper Mills and the famous Niagara Falls, one of Canada's largest.

After the New Year I applied for my reservation on the "North Star" to complete my trip to the London airport and my home in Wales. I left Toronto airport at 9 p.m. on January 14 for Montreal airport arriving there at noon. Departing on the "North Star" for London at about 4:30 p.m. our first stop was at Goose Bay, Labrador at 9 p.m. We were greeted there with hot coffee and biscuits which was welcomed as it was very cold. We stayed there one hour. When we went aboard the plane we were told 7 hours and 1/4 we would be in London.

After a comfortable sleep I woke up next morning and was told that we were going over the West Coast of Ireland. I peeped down and saw the ocean, we were flying 6000 feet above the clouds and we arrived in London at 12 o'clock noon on Jan. 15th, after a delightful trip which only took 12 hours. Now it goes to show you how close air travel can bring us to one another which otherwise would have taken 14 days.

The navigator was a close friend of her son Foss Boulton Flying Ace, when stationed at Calgary. Mr. Boulton accompanied her to Toronto.

COLEMAN ELKS TO ATTEND CONVENTION IN DRUMHELLER

A great number of Coleman Elks will leave to take in the annual convention of the B.P.O.E. to be held in Drumheller on Friday and Saturday, June 10 and 11.

The local delegates will be headed by Secretary J. M. Ruston, K. N. George Ruston, Exalted Ruler, B. Gentile and A. Tiffen, one of the members.

The Coleman Lodge will also bring along their Patrol team of 13 members, which will put on their well practiced ritual. The lodge's piano player will be Mrs. Isabella Spivak, from Coleman. Adam Wilson, tyler of the Alberta Grand Lodge of the B.P.O.E. will also accompany the members.

The Journal has Model 5 Remington Rand portables in stock and students who plan on purchasing their own machines to aid in their typing classes can secure one of these beautiful machines without a moment's delay.

RED SHIELD OBJECTIVE IN SIGHT

Canvassers have been hard at work during the last two weeks, and subscriptions to date to The Salvation Army's 1949 Red Shield objective for the entire Pass is $1,350.00, which leaves a balance of slightly under $300 to accomplish this target.

The amount of $407.50 has been contributed from the Town of Coleman, which means that the objective of $550 for this town is in sight, and should be reached before the close of this week.

Donors are urged to send in their contributions immediately if they have not been canvassed, so that the campaign will not need to be extended unduly.

Army officials said that they were more than grateful for the amount given by local citizens in all walks of life, and express the hope they would feel some personal satisfaction in having helped to meet the needs of others less fortunate than themselves.

Mrs. J. Naylor Farewell

Mrs. J. A. McDonald entertained a number of friends on Friday evening last, in the form of a farewell party in honor of Mrs. J. Naylor who is leaving Coleman shortly. Three tables of whilst were played, honor going to Mrs. J. Kapalka, Mrs. S. B. Ryan and Mrs. J. J. McIntyre. A dainty lunch was served and the assembled presented Mrs. Naylor with a plastic purse, for which the group were heartily thanked by the guest of honor.

She landed on grass after her feet struck a parked car, but escaped uninjured.—S.N.S. photo.

Furs were popular among the ladies as can be seen by this fine display. OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY.

WAKE UP, LYDIA

I'm not one to talk," whined Lydia Doolittle, "but it's gospel."

Beady eyes squinted with glee as she glanced furtively around the post office. She watched the effect of her words on the clerk. Satisfied, she clutched a handful of skirt and hopped toward the door.

Suddenly she stopped. "My land!" she squealed.

One of the posters on the bulletin board bore front and side view pictures of a man. Reward was offered for information leading to the capture of one Ralph Brady, wanted for armed robbery.

The splinter Doolittle adjusted her ancient spectacles.

"My eyes ain't what they was," she muttered, "but that don't look like Smith, feller who's been hangin' around. It's good somebody in Coltville is awake."

The clerk left the stamp window for a moment. Temptation and opportunity struck together. So did Lydia. With a daring clasp, she snatched the notice, thrust it into the folds of her clothing, and went out.

"Ain't nobody a-goin' to get credit for catchin' this John Smith but me," she snorted. "Trouble is nobody's awake in this town. That's why we have only one factory."

Miss Doolittle didn't like John Smith. He had registered at the hotel, two weeks ago and no one seemed to know anything about him. All he did was wander around Coltville or go over to Keene Falls and wander there. He had been seen at the railroad station one day, along the river bank on the next, or around the factory on another.

"That's it!" she cracked. "The factory! They're paying the yearly bonus next week and I'll bet that Brady and Smith has his eye on it."

Mr. Boswell, the barber, was standing outside when she passed.

Afternoon, Miss Lydia," he called. "You look a mite flustered. Anything wrong?"

"There's plenty wrong, Will Boswell," snapped Lydia, "but you'd never know it sunlin' you'd be a cat. As a counsellor you should be thinkin' about ways to perk up business around here."

"Now, Lydia . . ."

"Or," whispered the spinster, "a way to keep criminals off the streets a free man. Good day."

The baron leaned forward. "Know somethin'?"
